The summer break was much needed and I'm only just now getting back to it. There are some things I enjoy very much about the summer, namely, it's a time when I can do a lot of reading and writing. There's no small time commitment, but the great thing about reading is that I can fit it in whenever I want, if I have the time. I've been reading a lot of biographies this summer – Richard S. Newman is my favorite author, so I've read everything he's written. He covers a broad range of subjects and has just the right touch. I also read: I think the most important thing about reading is that it can keep you from being bored with your life. Maybe not in the way that school kids expect, but in a good, healthy way. Here's some of what I read this summer: About Me My name is Michael May and I am a Professor of Chemistry at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. I am married, have a daughter, and a dog. I am a Christian, a nerd, and an amateur photographer. I enjoy making jewelry, swimming, cooking, and gaming. I also have a YouTube channel. An important event During the Chinese New Year, there is a very important event that takes place at the Burmese embassy on Bangkok's Phahonyothin Road. A traditional Thai ceremony known as Prawitan Lam in Burmese – translates to "Praying for the First Month" – is carried out in accordance with Buddhist principles to bless the start of the year. Elders who are senior monks from Burma's Bago Division of the Buddhist Sangha arrive in Bangkok, Thailand, on 20 December every year to perform the Prawitan Lam. The Burmese ambassador himself plays a very important role in this ceremony. He is dressed in a red coloured Burmese robe, which is in accordance with the Burmese version of
